

Lexi Aligarbes (she/her) is a Co-Pastor at Harrisburg First Church of the Brethren. Originally from New Mexico, Lexi has recently relocated to serve with her congregation in the neighborhood of South Allison Hill, in Harrisburg, PA. She holds an MDiv. from Princeton Theological Seminary and a B.A. in Peace and Global Studies from Earlham College. Her vocational journey has allowed her to serve in places such as Philadelphia, Atlanta, and Trenton. Lexi is excited to have answered a call within the Church of the Brethren and to be joining the Atlantic Northeast District. She is passionate about cultivating spiritual disciplines for social action and celebrating the richness found in urban ministry. When she's not at church you can find Lexi on the tennis court, hiking a new trail, or salsa dancing with friends.
