A Note for You...

Calling

"I urge you to a life worthy of the calling you have received." Ephesians 4:1 (NIV)

You have a calling. We all do. In my role as Director of Church Development, I hope and pray that your call will be to start a new church (also known as - plant a new church). However, God doesn't just call those who have the gifts to be church planters. The overwhelming message of scripture is that God calls every person to a specific purpose and mission.

Church Planters, you have to know your calling. Vocation comes from the Latin word for voice and means "what God has called you to do." Jesus knew his calling. He said in John 8:14, "I know where I came from and where I am going" (NIV). Jesus understood his unique purpose—and he lived for it.

Your life is driven by something. All of our lives are driven by something. Sometimes they're driven by regret or anger, sometimes they're driven by shame. God wants your calling to drive your life. You may think you settled your calling years ago, yet, you may still be wrestling with the idea of calling to start a new church.

So, my Sisters and Brothers -- have a little talk with Jesus and tell him all about, and maybe the Call to Plant a Church might manifest itself.

Do you possess the following?

- Visioning Capacity
- Personal Motivation
- Creating Ownership of Ministry/
Building a Core Team
- Reaching the Un-Churched
- Spousal cooperation
- Relationship Building
- Responsiveness to community
- Exercising Faith
- Gift utilization
- Flexibility and adaptability
- Building Group Cohesiveness
- Entrepreneurial spirit

Think about and pray through the aforementioned and it just might lead your specific calling to Start or Plant a Church. God doesn't give you a calling you'll find miserable. If he has called you to start a new church, you'll enjoy it and be good at it.

I encourage you to ask yourself everyday:

Am I doing what I'm called to do?

ANE DISTRICT CONFERENCE • OCTOBER 7 & 8, 2022

John Hostetter
Moderator

The church has a powerful gift to offer to sisters and brothers in Christ. As this gift takes root in our life together as bodies of believers, through ministry and mission, we are able to offer this gift to communities around the world. The gift I'm referring to is how the gospel empowers people to rewrite the story of their life. This isn't just a pious platitude. The New Testament writers speak of the power exhibited in the resurrection as the same power at work in our lives and churches (Ephesians 1:19 20).

Often, the script of people's lives are being written by the negative messages they've received. Inherent in the gospel is the power to change the script of our lives. No longer is my story being written by the voices of the world, but by Jesus. The church gathers regularly to study, pray and discern how to live the new script as a follower of Jesus. What a mission the church has...to free people from the old, enslaving scripts to empower them to live God's script.

Having said that as a backdrop, let me introduce the logo. We know it is easy to drive by a pleasant sight of nature, see it, but not take it in so that our emotions are impacted. The logo is designed with the intention of getting us to stop and take it in. The design includes a traditional image with flames bursting forth from a church. This represents that the church is ignited by the power of the spirit to be Christ church to radiate God's love. But then, there is the "C" clamp. Not something we would normally see in a logo. This represents the pressures that seek to write an alternative story of the church.

The design is intended to show the possibly of a church whose story is being written by Jesus. But secondly it is intended to get us to pause and ask, what truly is writing the story of our lives and our church's life? Is it Jesus, or is it the ways of the world?

I wonder if the angry approaches over social agendas, the political discords, the general rudeness and disrespect shown to those who see things differently is creeping into our churches and affecting the story of our churches. The intent of this logo is to be hopeful. Even though there is unrelenting pressure to be formed by cultural attitudes, the church has been ignited by the Spirit to have a different story. What a story the church can write. Through our ministries and mission endeavors, we have the opportunity to help communities subjected to violence, divisiveness and disruption to rewrite their stories. The flames of the good news of the gospel rewrites stories.

I am deeply grateful to Amber Huffman of the Mt Wilson Church of the Brethren, who took my rambling explanations of the theme and designed such a creative logo for the theme. Her creative thoughts and artwork is truly a gift and we have been blessed.

It is my prayer, as we see this logo at District Conference, that it will keep this question before us. What is writing the story of this year's District Conference? Is it a church ignited by the Spirit and power of the resurrected Lord, or the cultural patterns of our day? Let us pray together for a story that is written by the Spirit.

EPH. 4:15-16

Lenten Bible Study Update

For seven weeks, a group of about 15 people from across our district have been engaged in a meaningful Bible Study centered on the life and teachings of Christ. We have taken a deep-dive exploring who Jesus is and what Jesus has taught us to do as his followers. Our discussions have been thought-provoking, authentic, and lively and it has been good to be together on Zoom!

ANE District Board Meeting Update

The Atlantic Northeast District Board had a hybrid meeting on Tuesday, March 22. Some members met at the Lebanon Church of the Brethren, while others joined the meeting online. Among many items of discussion, action and reporting, a few highlights from the March 22 meeting are shared below.

Belita Mitchell, chair of the Way Forward Shepherding Team, reported on the continued work of the Team. The Way Forward Shepherding Team meets bimonthly. The completed Way Forward video, including Spanish translation, is now available on the District website (www.ane-cob.org).

The Board processed approvals for three ordination candidates. Each candidate came recommended by the District Ministry Commission.

The Board recommended the disorganization of 4 churches to this year's District Conference. The disorganization of Chiques Church of the Brethren, Haitian First Church of the Brethren, Middle Creek Church of the Brethren, and White Oak Church of the Brethren will be presented to the Conference delegates for action.

Each District Commission had the opportunity to share of its work to the larger Board. The Nurture Commission has led a District-wide Bible Study during Lent. Witness and Outreach Commission promoted its upcoming event The Church: Alive to Thrive on May 14.

The Board's next meeting is Tuesday, June 21, 2022.

How are leaders called out within your church?

In our morning session, we will hear encouraging testimonies shared by representatives from a variety of ANE churches who will answer the question:
